U.S. Soft Coal Strike Called For Thursday

Murdered Family In Unsound Mind Verdict Of Jury

Following an inquest into the deaths of 23-year-old Nellie Laura Lemieux and her two-year-old daughter Caroline May, a coroner's jury, today, brought in a verdict that 25-year-old navy veteran John Peter Lemieux, while of unsound mind, murdered his wife and daughter with a shotgun in their 3451 Doncaster Drive home on or about Nov. 11.

An inquiry into the death of Lemieux will be held by Dr. E. C. Hart, coroner, using evidence submitted at the inquest which indicated Lemieux had shot himself in the head after killing his wife and daughter.

Evidence was presented by Sgt. Cecil Pearce and Const. Bert

Pearson, who conducted the Saanich police investigation, and by four other witnesses two of whom discovered the bodies, a third, who related Lemieux's depressed state of mind, and a fourth, Maxwell Lindores, who identified the dead woman as Mrs. Lemieux.

Worried Over Property

Mrs. Norma Martin, 505 Russell Street, told the coroner's jury she had last seen Lemieux and his wife alive last Friday night when, she said, Lemieux did not appear to be very happy concerning the house which he had purchased a short while ago. He complained, she said, he had made several mistakes in buying the house. He was also worried over taking forthcoming examinations at H.M.C. Dockyard where he was employed in the civilian branch of the fire department.

She went on to relate the events which led to the discovery of the bodies through a Wednesday luncheon appointment which was broken by the tragedy.

The first premonition of something wrong Mrs. Martin had was when Mrs. Lemieux, who expected her at the house, failed to come out to meet her guest. Knocked at the door were of no avail and she saw a paper and bottles of milk untouched at the back of the house.

Finally, through an opened door, she saw blood, a shotgun and shell cases on the kitchen floor and ran for the aid of Frank Ingram, 3460 Cedar Hill Road, who was working in his garden to the rear of the Lemieux house.

The two then went into the house, where Mr. Ingram, looking through a bedroom door, saw the bodies of Lemieux and his wife.

Questioned by Sgt. Eric Elwell, Saanich police, Mrs. Martin said Lemieux worried a great deal over the house and that the family had put all its money into it.

Lemieux, Mrs. Martin continued, suffered from a rash on his hand which broke out when he became very nervous. He had been to hospital for treatment of the rash several months ago. On Friday night, at which time he complained he had been unable to sleep, his hands again bore the rash.

Lemieux, she said, was overworked by the combined strain of his work at the Dockyard and his further hours of work at the house when he arrived home.

Mr. Ingram recounted his discovery, with Mrs. Martin, of the bodies.

Norman Stewardson, captain of the fire department branch in which Lemieux was employed, told of conversations with the dead man in which Lemieux had spoken of his intense worry and sleeplessness.

Was Low And Despondent

He last saw Lemieux at 4.30 Sunday when he was very low and despondent. At 3.45 the same day, Lemieux went to his captain's office. He was very agitated and wanted to be taken off the service truck which he drove. He had been unable to sleep for days and nights, he told Capt. Stewardson and he felt it would endanger the lives of the others of the branch if he drove them around in the truck.

Lemieux had also said he was a nervous wreck over the purchase of the house in which he had involved himself more than he realized, the witness said. Lemieux, who went into the branch in May, had always been cheerful until recently.

Lemieux and Capt. Stewardson rode back in the same car to go to Capt. Stewardson's house where Lemieux usually left his bicycle.

On the way there, Lemieux said, "If only I could sleep." He asked about sleeping pills but Capt. Stewardson, observing the man's agitation talked him out of it and gave him a small tot of rum to help him sleep.

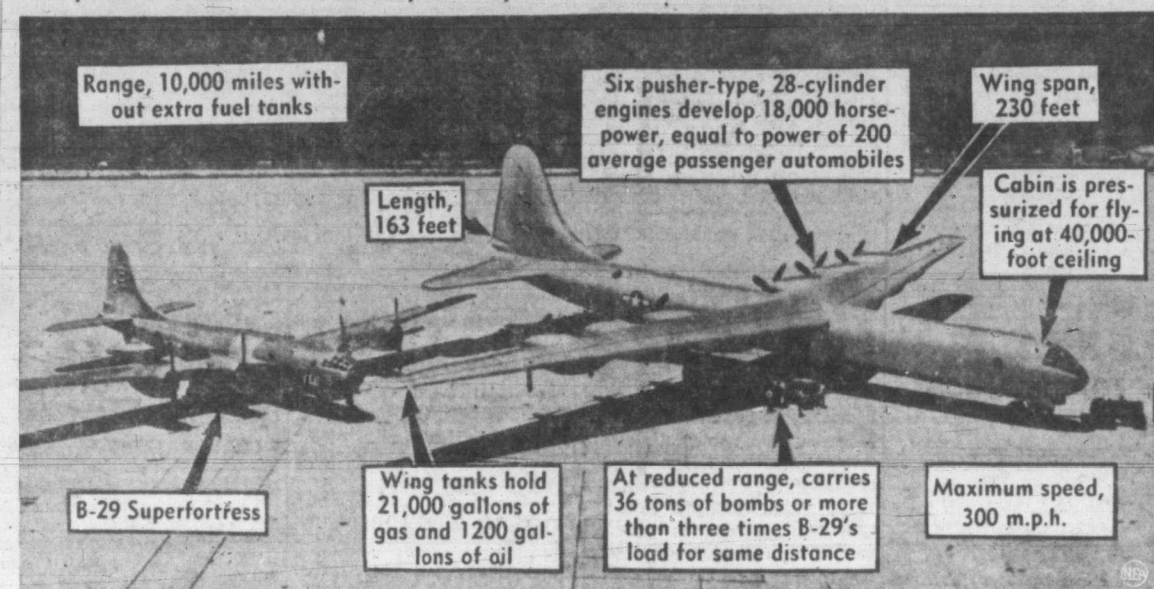

Under questioning by Sgt. Elwell, the witness went back to a conversation which took place at 7.30 Sunday morning when Lemieux talked about real estate and remarked that a mortgage was a terrible thing. He had taken on more than he realized in purchasing the house, Lemieux said.

Sgt. Pearce, who conducted the investigation for Saanich police, gave detailed evidence of the positions of the bodies, the wounds, the shotgun, shells and marks of blood through the kitchen and the bedroom where the dead Mrs. Lemieux lay on the bed. They were called to the scene at 11.15 Wednesday morning, he said.

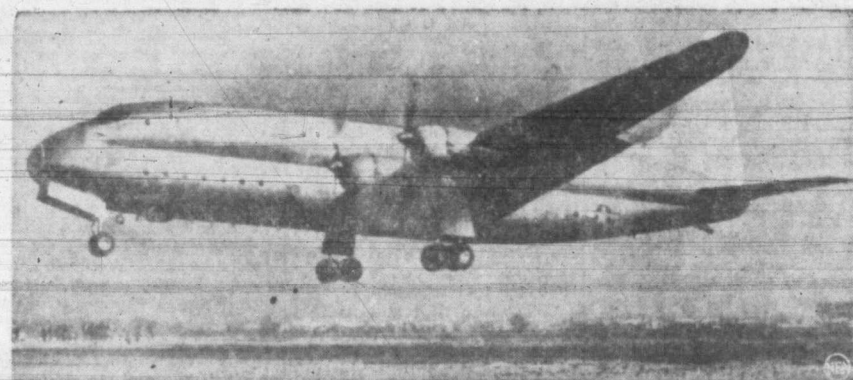

Const. Pearson produced a plan of the house which showed the positions of the bodies, blood marks, gun and shells as Sgt. Pearce had described them.

As there was no medical evidence presented at the inquest,

Wraps Taken Off New Super-Super Bomber As It Passes Tests

The U.S. Army Air Force has just revealed construction and performance data on its giant B-36 heavy bomber, which can "carry an atomic bomb to any inhabited region in the world and return home without refueling." Pictogram above shows the air monster dwarfing a B-29 Superfortress, which plane it will replace as the major striking weapon of the U.S. Strategic Air Force. Built by Consolidated Vultee, the B-36 carries a crew of 12, plus a four-man relief crew.

Demand For Change In Foreign Policy Of Britain Comes Before Parliament

LONDON (AP)—A demand for an immediate change in British foreign policy, which has caused a critical cleavage in the ranks of the ruling Labor Party, will come before the House of Commons Monday for debate, Speaker Douglas Clifton Brown ruled today.

Cabinet sources left no doubt that they intend to fight with all their power the proposal by more than 50 Labor rebels for recasting British foreign policy so as to avoid what they termed an "inevitable conflict" between the Soviet Union and the United States.

VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

It appeared certain that with the full force of the government and Conservatives under Winston Churchill both lined up behind Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's conduct of foreign affairs the cabinet would receive a thumping vote of confidence, if the issue comes to a showdown vote.

The so-called "Bevin chasers," sponsors of an amendment to the Parliament-opening Speech from the Throne demanding that Britain's foreign policy be tied neither to that of Russia nor the United States, already have announced they do not intend to press for a vote, however.

Tom Driberg, Labor, one of the sponsors of the amendment, capped a free-hitting argument in the House Thursday night with a hotly-worded attack on Britain's close ties with the United States and a demand that Britain become more friendly with Russia. He said the United States was the only great power in the world where some "ordinary people wanted war."

W. M. Warbey, Labor, another of the amendment's sponsors, urged Prime Minister Attlee's government to drop "this one-sided sectional association with the U.S." and try instead "the policy of equal friendliness and equal frankness towards both the Soviet Union and the U.S."

FOR A RIDE?

The argument raged just as hotly outside Parliament, too. Harry Pollitt, general secretary of the Communist Party, told a party rally, without amplification: "I believe America aims to take Britain for a ride."

Some of the insurgents themselves had said privately they would not vote against the government, but intended to carry out in debate their already sharply worded criticism of what they called "Bevinism."

State Minister Hector McNeill has been designated to speak for the government in the debate.

Municipal Election Dates Announced

City and village municipalities will hold their annual elections Dec. 12 while district municipalities will elect their reeves and municipal councils Dec. 14, the provincial Department of Municipal Affairs reported today.

The rule does not apply to Victoria and Vancouver which are governed by special charter. In Victoria election day is Dec. 12, while in Vancouver election day is Dec. 11. Nomination day is Dec. 5 for Victoria and Dec. 4 for Vancouver.

Nomination day for city, district and village municipalities is Dec. 9.

2 Hurt In Fight

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two men, Stanley Larson and Billy Gladstone of Bella Bella, B.C., were wounded during a fight here Thursday night and today police are holding a man for investigation. Police said the two men were slashed with a broken bottle.

Youth Wanted After Slaying Eludes Posses

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—Police posses, aided by civilian volunteers, today continued their husband search for an 18-year-old youth wanted in the shotgun slaying of Robert F. Teeporten, 39-year-old handyman.

Teeporten was killed Thursday near his woodland cabin close to Deep Cove on the north shore, and later his wife was beaten and robbed. She suffered head wounds from the beating with a piece of wood.

Mrs. Teeporten told police the youth was Donald Russell of North Vancouver, a friend of the family who had been staying with them for two days. He was believed to be armed with a shotgun and a hunting knife.

The infant daughter of the Teeportens was unharmed as she slept in her crib while her mother was being beaten.

Victoria Liberals Elect Officers

When nominations closed on Wednesday night the following were elected unanimously as officers of the Victoria Liberal Association for the next year: President, Capt. D. J. Proudfoot; vice-president, Emerson L. Smith; secretary, Arthur H. Cox, and treasurer, Earl C. Pollock.

The annual meeting for the purpose of receiving reports of the past year's work will be held at Liberal headquarters April 21 at 8.

133 Park Ships Sold

OTTAWA (CP)—At Oct. 31, the government-owned Park Steamship Company had sold 133 Park ships to private companies, the War Assets Corporation announced today. The sales amounted to $62,580,162, an average of $470,527 a vessel. The three ships sold during October include the 4,700-ton dry-cargo coal burner Victoria Park to Johnston Walton Steamship Co. Ltd., Vancouver.

Lewis Rejects Direct Appeal From Truman

WASHINGTON (AP)—John L. Lewis today brushed aside a White House appeal and signalled a soft coal mine shutdown starting next Wednesday midnight.

Promptly after President Truman had squarely checked to him responsibility for any pre-winter mine stoppage, Mr. Lewis announced the working contract with the United Mine Workers with the government will be considered terminated Nov. 20.

By then, the miners do not work without a contract and the U.M.W. boss gave formal notice of a termination of the contract under which the government has operated the mines since last spring.

Truman announced at 2.15 p.m., E.S.T., that Mr. Lewis had rejected a government proposal for a 60-day truce to permit negotiations looking to a return of the mines to private ownership. The President said Attorney General Tom Clark had ruled that the government's current contract with Mr. Lewis could not be reopened unless both parties agreed.

KRUG INFORMED

Within 20 minutes Mr. Lewis' office made known that the mine leader already had notified Interior Secretary Krug that the contract would be considered at an end within five days (that is next Wednesday night). This notice was based on a previous contract between the U.M.W. and the mine owners.

"Your proposal for this operation-miners' conference to supersede the conference now in existence since Nov. 1 (between Mr. Krug and Mr. Lewis) is sheer folly, an empty platitude, well known to you so to be," read Mr. Lewis' communication to Mr. Krug.

URGED RECONSIDERATION

The President had called on Mr. Lewis for "serious reconsideration" of the proposal under which the seized mines would be returned to their owners, and also:

1. Disclosed that Mr. Clark had ruled, in agreement with Mr. Krug, that Mr. Lewis is wrong in his contention that the current contract can be reopened during the period of government operation.

2. Reported the mine operators had accepted the proposal, which was put forward by Mr. Krug.

Western Provinces Plan United Front On Railway Rates

EDMONTON (CP)—Representatives of the four western provinces, agreed on the desirability of presenting a united front in connection with the Canadian Railways' application for a 30 per cent increase in freight rates, were returning home today to obtain the official attitude of their governments.

Works Minister W. A. Fallow of Alberta, appointed convener of a steering committee at the conclusion of the two-day conference here, said he expected to be in a position early next week to make a statement as to its attitude "on the whole thing."

Premier King, Howe Not Spy Witnesses

OTTAWA (CP)—The conspiracy trial of David Gordon Lunan ended abruptly today when J. L. Cohen of Toronto, defence counsel, closed his case without calling Prime Minister King, Reconstruction Minister Howe or other government officials he had subpoenaed earlier this week.

Style Restrictions On Clothes Lifted

OTTAWA (CP)—The war finally ended for Canada's clothing industry with a Prices Board announcement today that all style restrictions on the manufacture of women's, misses' and children's clothes now have been removed.

The board said this means that the last wartime control over styles of all men's, women's and children's clothing have been eliminated.

U.S. Resists Change In Charter Of U.N.

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (CP)—Senator Tom Connally today announced the United States would resist any attempt to amend the United Nations' charter to eliminate or modify the veto power.

At the same time the Texas Democrat declared the veto "must not be used to frustrate the functioning of the Security Council."

The shaggy-haired spokesman for the U.S. delegation in the political committee replied to Thursday's onslaught from six smaller powers demanding removal or curtailment of the veto power enjoyed by the Big Five permanent members of the Security Council.

He did not specifically mention Russia, which has been a frequent employer of the veto to nullify majority decisions of the Council, but he said no member had a right to "cast a vote in any narrow, nationalistic or selfish interest."

Warns Against Theft Of Power

"Let there be no embezzlement of power by the Security Council or by any member," he said.

"Arbitrary or wilful" use of the veto could, over a period of time, cause disintegration of the organization, Senator Connally said.

"Membership in the Security Council carries no title of nobility, nor privilege nor preference. Members of the Security Council are trustees for all members of the U.N.

"The responsibility of the five permanent members is momentous, tremendous. It may have the effect of shaking the very foundations of the earth."

The Canadian attitude toward the veto is scheduled for presentation tomorrow, probably by the delegation chairman, Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent.

While unequivocally opposed to a charter amendment on this issue, Senator Connally called on the other four major powers—the United Kingdom, France, China and Russia—voluntarily to restrict use of the veto to "the very rare and exceptional cases."

He warned that "division between the great powers over intervention or the use of force might result in war instead of peace," but declared the veto "must not be used to frustrate the functioning of the Security Council."

Senator Connally declared that "any amendment to the charter is impossible at this time," but expressed the hope that agreement among the five big powers "may make it possible in the future to modify" the use of the veto.

Father Kills Children, Self, Wounds Wife

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—A father shot his two children fatally, critically wounded his wife, then, turned the gun on himself, police said today, apparently as the climax of an argument as the family drove to a train.

Dead: Richard Ellerby, 33, a salesman; his son, Richard Jr., 15, and daughter, Carolyn Jean, 3.

In a hospital shot through the head, is Mrs. Betty Ellerby with a chance to survive.

Police reported the father and daughter died en route to the hospital; the son shortly after arrival. Mrs. Ellerby remained conscious, and police quoted her as saying her husband "slugged" her after an argument. She did not realize, officers said, that she had been shot.

VERNON FIFTH

First baseman Mickey Vernon of Washington Senators, who beat out Williams for the league batting championship with a .353 average to Ted's .343, finished in fifth place with 134 votes. Cleveland's star twirler, Bob Feller, who fanned 348 for a season strikeout record, was the only other player to get more than 100 points. He placed sixth with 105.

Rounding out the first 10 were Boston's right-handed ace pitcher,

They would permit the lifting of a ball lying within six inches of the hole and interfering with an opponent's play, and allow the disqualification of players who delay or waste time in a tournament.

Assembly Dock
In Port Alberni
To Be Improved

PORT ALBERNI—A $144,000 contract for Assembly Dock improvements has been awarded to the B.C. Bridge & Dredging Co. Ltd., Vancouver. It was announced by Jack Gibson, M.P., for Comox-Alberni.

Members of the House of Commons endorsed the new dock last year and the amount is $4,000 greater than the Dominion government supplementary estimates approved at Ottawa.

Work on the project is expected to begin next year. The dock when completed will be longer by 150 feet and will be capable of handling larger cargo storage space. The wharf will have an overall length of 1,000 feet and a width of 120 feet.

The dock is being improved in order to accommodate cargo for two 10,000-ton freighters at a time. The present wharf was too small to handle ships of considerable size and did not have the storage capacity.

Island Oyster Growers
To Get Seed From Japan

Oyster growers along the east coast of Vancouver Island will receive a share of seed oysters being imported from Japan by a government company in the United States, George J. Alexander, assistant commissioner of fisheries for the B.C. government, reported today.

While during some years oysters grown on the east coast of Vancouver Island will propagate, spawning of the oysters has not been general and oyster growers here have had to import seed oysters or else their production would be curbed.

The available seed from Japan will be distributed on a pro rata basis, Mr. Alexander said.

A PROMISING SETTLEMENT

ONE YEAR AGO TODAY NEWSPAPERS of the world carried headlines on the fierce fighting at Soerabaya between Indonesian and British forces. The accounts of that clash are brought to mind by current announcement of agreement reached between the Indonesian and The Netherlands delegations on a master plan for establishment of a new Pacific nation, the politically independent United States of Indonesia. The plan, moreover, is expected to gain early approval from the Dutch government, with Holland and the new state becoming equal partners under the Royal House of Orange.

Here, in a troubled world, appears to be one settlement that may serve as a model for accord between nations of long tradition in the so-called western democratic civilization and former dependents whose exposure to similar political philosophy has been of relatively short duration. The partnership is suggestive of several advantages, not the least among them being the benefits that could accrue from wise application of Holland's longer democratic experience to relations with the vigorously nationalistic East Indies.

Today's announcement also should serve to remind the reading public of the efforts made early this year to see in the bloody collisions in Batavia a manifestation of the irreconcilable differences between an imperial power and a subject people. Britain's role as an officer of the peace was assailed on those grounds by certain interests. It is worth remembering, too, that both Premier Sutan Sjahrir, one of the signatories for Indonesia of yesterday's plan, repudiated that suggestion with the request last January that British forces remain in his country until Japanese elements there had been disarmed and removed. The words of Peter Kierstens, education director of The Netherlands East Indies Government and former Minister of Economics, at that time bear repetition. Said that official:

"It would be irresponsible if the British withdrew utterly, and disastrous for the Indonesians . . . for the British to withdraw would mean sacrificing the Indonesians to Soviet propaganda."

The sanity of the course adopted early this year seems to be proved in the arrangement which has been initiated and awaits formal approval from The Hague. Those countries which love liberty will hope the bright promise contained in the master plan will be fulfilled.

ALIENATING GOOD WILL

THOUGHTFUL JEWS IN ALL PARTS of the world cannot escape the realization that terrorism in Palestine and threats of its introduction into Britain must be more damaging to the cause of a "national home" than probably any other activity. It is small wonder, then, that the board of deputies of British Jews should express "distress" over these threats and regret the "sensationalism of these reports which can only tend to create bad feeling among Jews."

The protests against the manner in which the issue has been handled by the press, however, are based on unstable grounds. Terrorism, in itself, is a sensational matter. Its treatment in news automatically assumes the color inherent in the practice. Nor will it be allayed while factual reports from Palestine describe the unearthing of live mines from railway lines as well as calls from the "Voice of Fighting Zion" to the Jewish resistance movement to join in a "holy war against the British oppressors." It is, moreover, highly unfortunate that current dispatches from Frankfurt disclose the arrest of leading black market figures in a Jewish displaced persons camp at Zellshelm. Members of the faith are by no means the only people engaging in this nefarious traffic. But, according to reports, they are not immune to this social cancer.

Of greatest importance to the Jewish cause is their appearance before the court of world opinion with clean hands. They may be distressed by the inability to make such an appearance, but they have to thank their own people, in a very large measure, for the situation in which they are placed. And as long as the sane and reliable elements within Jewry are unable to curb the activities of the extremists, the legitimate claims of the Jews are jeopardized.

THE 'CHRISTIAN' SPIRIT

TO OUR DESK HAS JUST COME A marked copy of "The Gospel Witness and Protestant Advocate" which contains the following:

"It is reported that Premier King will shortly retire from the premiership. This report is based on the allegation that before the last general election Mr. King announced that it would be the last election in which he would lead the party. If that be true, and should he live up to his promise, we predict that he will still hold on to office until somewhere near the next election time. But whenever he retires, so far as Canadians of moral and political discernment are concerned, who love freedom, and are loyal to the British connection, he will depart 'unwept, unhonored and unsung,' and future generations, unless a miracle shall soon happen, will execrate the day in which William Lyon Mackenzie King was born. Whether it will be possible to find anywhere anyone who would render greater service to the Roman Catholic Church in general, and the Jesuit Order in particular, than Mr. King has rendered, it is difficult for anyone to say."

The publication which printed the above is edited by Dr. T. T. Shields, pastor of the Jarvis Street Baptist Church, Toronto, Ont. Most people, of course, will find it difficult to understand how a minister of the gospel could stoop so low as to refer to the Prime Minister of Canada in such disgusting terms.

We are not concerned with Dr. Shields' campaign against the Roman church. But if he were to make a few inquiries about the present head of the government—a staunch Presbyterian—who has not forgotten the Golden Rule—he would discover that many, many Canadians are more than glad that William Lyon Mackenzie King has lived among them for more than the Psalmist's allotted span.

SELF-HELP PAYS OFF

ENTERPRISING PORT ALBERNI HAS performed the commendable feat of housing more than 180 families in its army camp without a cent of financial assistance from the federal government. And the good burghers of this thriving Vancouver Island community have ample justification for feeling proud of the claim that their camp is giving service to more families than any other similar establishment in Western Canada—and that they did not ask for a nickel's worth of outside aid.

But initiative and vision are about to pay off. The federal emergency shelter official recently inspected the camp, listened to the argument that the people of Port Alberni would like to add another 45 suites to those already occupied, and intimated that their appeal would almost certainly receive favorable and prompt consideration by the authorities at Ottawa. The moral of this requires no emphasis.

Port Alberni, of course, is one of several communities which have relied on self help in the matter of local enterprise. The cities, for some reason not easily fathomed, have succumbed to the temptation of running to governments when expansionist programs of any kind have been under discussion. In some cases such a procedure is necessary. But, in the long run, a little more of the Port Alberni spirit would return dividends.

SPIRIT OF DRAKE

THAT SPECIAL COURAGE WHICH MEN of the Drake stamp imparted to Plymouth takes new form in the badly-blighted town's plans for regeneration. Out of the rubble that is war's legacy to the famous city will emerge an example of man's triumph over disaster in the way of town-planning, if the Phoenix-like process envisioned reaches fruition.

Adopting the slogan of "Maximum sunlight and air make for maximum efficiency," and voicing Drake's prayer—"Oh, Lord God, when Thou givest to Thy servants to endeavour any great matter, grant us also to know that it is not the beginning, but the continuing of the same, until it be thoroughly finished, which yieldeth true glory"—the people of the port plan more than a rebuilding project. They intend to create a centre more as Plymouth should be, preserving the ancient landmarks and restoring points of historical interest, but bringing to their labors the enlightenment of modern knowledge on distribution and arrangement of population and business premises.

Approximately 175 acres of the city's prewar densely concentrated 900 acres have been levelled by bombs. In addition, many of the damaged buildings must be removed. On this ground the planners propose to erect a new city that will bring to thousands the amenities they previously lacked in the centre of crowded dwellings. It was a grim tragedy which made this potential rebirth feasible. But through the application of their slogan and Drake's prayer, the people of Plymouth will create something better than existed before. And this Old World centre which has, in historic times, done much to mold the form of the New World, once again promises an example for the younger cities of North America—to those communities which enjoy abundant space but have failed to apply to it a plan for its most attractive and valuable use.

JUST TOO CLEVER?

SCIENCE, WHICH REPRESENTS THE fine flowering of intellect in certain specialized spheres, has a habit of coming up occasionally with devastating comparisons between the human brain, on which it depends, and the deficiency of grey matter in certain of the lower animals which have roamed the earth at different times. The most recent contrast is presented by a study of the "thinking" apparatus of Gorgosaurus, a six to eight-ton monster with a brain which weighed a few ounces.

Even with that scanty equipment, says Dr. E. H. Colbert, curator of fossil reptiles at the American Museum of Natural History, dinosaurs were very successful monsters. They managed to exist for about 140,000,000 years and dominated the earth. Man's existence and domination is fixed at approximately 1,000,000 years. Dr. Colbert notes the development of bacteriological warfare, and other refinements for mass killing, and voices the comment that "man's problem is a complexity." Man, of course, has a vastly larger brain than the dinosaur. The question seems to be: Is he going to be just too smart for himself?

Walter Lippmann

WRONG ANSWER, RIGHT QUESTION

THE TROUBLE with Senator Fulbright's suggestion that the President resign to make way for an appointed Republican is, as many have already pointed out, that it would enable Mr. Truman to bypass primaries, nominating conventions, elections, and to appoint the next President of the United States. No Republican could afford to accept the Presidency of these terms. Nor is there any chance that the Senate would confirm the appointment of Mr. Truman's nominee.

But this does not dispose of the problem to which Senator Fulbright was addressing himself. The problem remains, and if Senator Fulbright has given the wrong answer, he has, nevertheless, asked the right question. Two very serious defects in the U.S. political system have, through no particular fault of Mr. Truman's, been sharply revealed.

For more than two years the action of government will be subject to the constant danger of stalemate and destructive conflict. Moreover, in case Mr. Truman were unable to finish his term, his successors would be, first, Mr. Byrnes and then Mr. Snyder, neither of whom has ever been nominated for President or elected. That Mr. Byrnes has the qualifications of a good President is, I believe, true. But he would have no mandate from the people or even his party. At best he would therefore, be a caretaker until a President could be elected.

THE TWO PROBLEMS, that of the succession and that of the mid-term stalemate, both arise, I submit, from the same difficulty—that Americans are accustomed to the idea that a Presidential election can be held only once in every four years. Both problems would be settled if it were deemed possible to hold intermediate elections for President and Vice-President without waiting until the four-year term ended.

It is possible to do that if the people, speaking through Congress, desire it. No amendment of the Constitution is necessary, only an act of Congress. It is quite plain that the authors of the Constitution thought there should be elections a few months after the offices of President and Vice-President had become vacant. It is quite plain, also, that they thought the President might not only die, or become disabled, or be removed by impeachment, but that he might resign. And whenever any of these things happened, if there was no Vice-President, they expected the country to have new elections—if possible within the same calendar year.

ALL THIS IS SET down in an act which originated in the First Congress, was passed by the Second Congress on Feb. 21, 1792, and approved by President Washington on March 1, 1792. This was the law of the land for 94 years, until 1886, when Congress replaced it by the Presidential Succession Act which is now in force. Congress could, of course, re-enact, with appropriate alterations to conform with the Twentieth (Norris) Amendment, and with other suitable changes, the law of 1792.

As the men of the First and Second Congress and the first President saw it, as the country saw it for 94 years afterwards, Mr. Truman could, if it were advisable, resign some time in the near future, and a new President could be elected in 1947 instead of waiting for 1948.

The Act of 1792 gives no support to those who now think that a President who decided to resign would be a quitter and a coward. George Washington, who was not a quitter or a coward, approved the act which tells how a President may resign. Section 11 says that "the only evidence . . . of a resignation . . . of the office of President shall be an instrument in writing declaring the same, and subscribed to by the person . . . resigning . . . and delivered into the office of the Secretary of State."

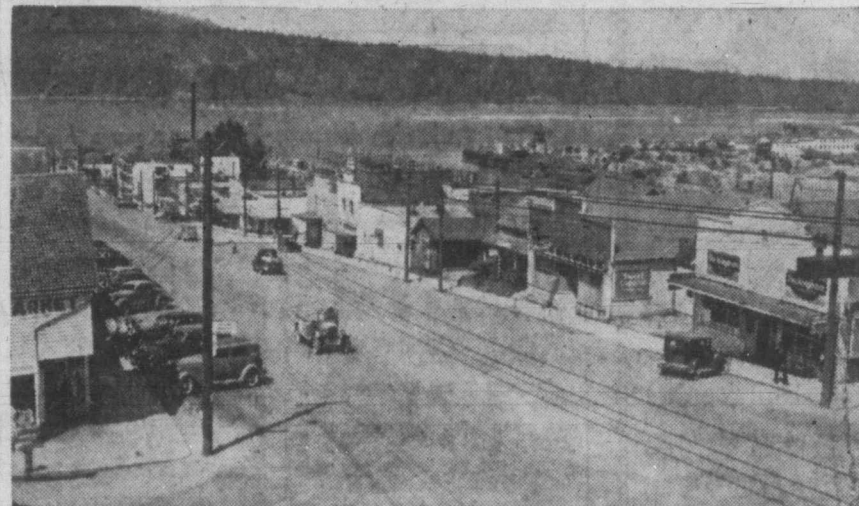

THERE APPEARS to be no record of the debates in the Senate where the Act of 1792 originated. But there is a summary of the debate in the House. It is clear from the record that all were agreed that if the office of President became vacant through death, disability, impeachment, or resignation, there should be a new election. It is also clear that until there was an election, they expected some one, not to be President, but "to act as President until the disability be removed or a President shall be elected."

Both Houses agreed that no one who had not been elected should be more than a temporary caretaker, an acting President. They rejected the idea that anyone should be President by appointment, as would be the case if Mr. Byrnes succeeded Mr. Truman, or by vote of a majority of one of the Houses of Congress if the President pro tempore of the Senate or the Speaker succeeded him.

I REALIZE HOW difficult it is for a nation to change its political habits. But there is an organic weakness in the U.S. system of government which could have, and may have, serious consequences. The United States has a President, who has no legally elected successor, and this President has been reelected in mid-term by the voters. It may be possible, however, to muddle through the difficulties of the mid-term stalemate, given the good will which Mr. Truman and the Republican leaders possess.

But it will be well to bear in mind that a better solution than this is permissible. Even if it is not adopted, the fact is being discussed should exert a favorable influence upon the President and upon Congress. It will be useful in the difficult days to come to have it established in American minds that the Constitutional system is not so rigid as is often thought.

'This Looks Reclaimable'

by d'YVES HUGONNET in "Liberation"

THE FRENCH have devoted themselves wholeheartedly to the task of re-educating the German people and, in particular, German youth. The sum of their achievement is impressive. The Military government of the French-occupied zone has re-opened 6,000 schools, started a modern co-educational university and training schools for new teachers; it has organized democratic youth movements and sports clubs, compiled and printed 1,500,000 school books, promoted publication and checked the material appearing in more than 20 German newspapers, with more than 2,000,000 circulation. French experts have put museums and 185 libraries in order, removing 328 tons of Nazi literature in the process, restored historic monuments and cathedrals, equipped four radio-broadcasting stations, arranged numerous exhibitions of French art, sponsored concerts and theatrical performances, and opened motion picture houses.

All this was accomplished in the face of many and varied difficulties. When the French authorities arrived in Germany they found conditions chaotic. Schools and universities had been closed for nearly 18 months. The youth of Germany was corrupted by Nazi teaching and defiantly unco-operative. Hungry children roamed the streets.

WHAT COULD be done? If schools were to be opened at once, then the denazification problem must be faced immediately. If schools remained closed until screening measures could be completed, nearly 1,000,000 children would be condemned to a life of vagrancy.

Unfortunately, German teaching staffs had been mainly recruited from the "petit bourgeoisie" among whom National Socialism had always found its staunchest supporters and propagandists. There was no escaping the fact that 80 per cent of German teaching staffs would eventually have to be replaced, but, in the meantime, the French authorities decided to reinstate the least fanatical among them and schools were opened within a relatively short space of time.

The compromise arrangement was not without its disadvantages. For the past 12 years these men had lived and thought entirely as Hitler dictated. Their minds are still vitiated and they cannot be trusted to take responsibility. In fact, they are uncertain what and how to teach under the new system. Even university lecturers have been known to appeal to the French authorities, saying: "Please explain Democracy to us. We have forgotten how it functions."

As one French school inspector said: "They seem to be completely disoriented, and come to us hoping to find new masters who will tell them exactly what to do."

UNFORTUNATELY there were no good textbooks available to compensate for the teachers' inadequacy. All Nazi material had, of course, been suppressed since the most general subjects, such as arithmetic, had been given a warlike twist. In the British and American zones, textbooks in use before 1933 had been quickly revised and reissued. But they were very incomplete and the French decided to make a clean sweep and bring out new ones.

The original plan was to have this material written by Germans. But, since they proved incapable, especially when it came to presenting the contemporary history of Germany in its true relation to international events, German school children are now studying books which were either prepared by French specialists in German, or purchased from Switzerland. The teachers seem to find the text as interesting as do their pupils. Large numbers of students, teachers, writers in other zones, British, American and Russian, have asked permission to transfer to the French zone. Deans of universities have offered to act as assistant professors if only they were allowed to teach under French direction.

THE FRENCH military government, has also authorized the resumption of courses in three German universities. Two, at Freiburg and Tübingen, already existed. Their traditional independence had been strangled by the Nazis, but they still contain a nucleus of non-Nazi scholars. (Some of the Freiburg faculty were implicated in the July, 1944, plot to assassinate Hitler.) However, both universities remain strongly tinged with the Bismarckian spirit. Despite this, they were permitted to reopen. The French are creating new departments, a chair of International Law, and History of National Socialism.

Since these two schools are fundamentally conservative, the need was felt for a modern university, untrammelled by the past, which could serve as a model for democratic education.

About a year ago, a few German educators, noted for their resistance to Nazi ideology, made the suggestion that the old Mainz University which had been closed for a century, should be revived. General Koenig agreed that their idea was an excellent one, and gave them permission to found what is now known as the Johann Gutenberg University. At the opening ceremony in May, 1946, addressing the German faculty, General Koenig said: "The French authorities were happy to assist you in every way so that your plan might be realized. The initial difficulties have been overcome, and I want to tell you that we feel you should now be the masters in this, your own house."

WHEN WE visited the new university which is located in a hastily converted barracks, we found it still smelling of fresh paint and filled to capacity with young men and women. Of 10,000 applicants for admission from every part of the zone, 4,000 had been accepted.

What type of youngsters are they? The majority of the men are war veterans, a few of them disabled, who are entering college after serving in their teens with the Wehrmacht. But you would never think so to see them in their shapeless overalls, plastering the walls, cleaning floors, peeling potatoes in readiness for the opening. They seem amenable and polite, and smile as the dean and French officers show me around. Many of them are only too ready to talk, and express themselves in a French they must have picked up while with the occupation forces in some French village or town.

What kind of mentality do they have? I was invited to see how some of them had arranged their rooms and carefully noted the books on their shelves: Goethe, Thomas Mann, Gide, a recent German edition of Verocor's "Silence de la Mer," lives of German composers.

THESE YOUNG Germans seem to be set on a new road. Although, like all their compatriots in the French-occupied zone, they suffer some material restrictions, they are a privileged and, in comparison to most Germans, a promising group. They are throwing themselves into their studies to escape from reality. One day they may be able to break through the thick shell of reserve and pride that constitutes the defense mechanism of German adolescents today.

To employ an expression often used by French administrators in Germany: "This looks like reclaimable material."

'ON PARADE'

A warm, living memorial, more precious than monuments of bronze or stone, will remain with us so long as veterans make their annual pilgrimage to the Cenotaph and join ranks, in memory, with the "silent army" of comrades with whom they fought side by side, and who were left sleeping on the field of honor.

Monday, for the first time in many years, I was on parade. What a change there was from the parades of two decades ago! Then, informality was carried to the extreme. The simplest of military movements were dispensed with. "Sort yourselves out!" was the order, and men tumbled into place, facing the direction of advance. It was "Cox's Army," on the move.

Monday, an earnest body of men, in whom the spirit of esprit de corps shone brightly, fell in as veterans should do; and, within my line of vision, they were sailors, soldiers and airmen "on parade." Their movements were smart and snappy; heels clicked, and turns were made as one man. They would have been a credit to a regiment of His Majesty's Brigade of Guards, on the march.

As time goes on, when the Last Post has sounded for many of the men who returned from the Second World War, the younger generation will hear the call of memory, and blanks left in the ranks by the Old Brigade will be filled, and the Day of Remembrance will be observed, in spirit and in deed, long after all veterans of the First World War have been mustered into the ranks of the "deathless army."

OLD-AGE PENSIONS

The public meeting called by the Trades and Labor Council to discuss the old-age pension question is welcome evidence of a re-awakening of the public conscience in regard to this problem. The repeated appeals of the Victoria No. 5 Branch of the B.C. Old-Age Pensioners' Organization for a much-needed increase in the cost-of-living bonus have so far been utterly ignored by the provincial government. It remains to be seen whether this stronger body of public opinion will have the desired result.

To come to the large problem of the pension itself, the aim of the O.A.P. Organization of British Columbia is a pension of $50 per month at 60 years of age, minus the abominable means test and other most objectionable features at present enforced; but the utmost the federal government has yet offered is a maximum of $30 which, as no one needs to be told, is totally inadequate, especially under present conditions.

In the meantime, mankind is on the march, and it will be only a few short years before many now in middle life will reach pensionable age, with youth not far behind. To these younger people old-age pensioners look for support in their struggle. With the employment age falling to an alarming degree it will not be long before they will be forced into the struggle. It will be wise therefore to play their part now in an endeavor to evolve a scheme of contributory pensions which will provide a standard of living much superior to that now offered by the federal government. This is no longer a problem solely for the aged. It embraces young and old alike.

the health of other nations. Here he inserted a warning: If world trade were to be conducted on principles opposed to those of the suggested charter the United States "would deeply regret it" but could adapt itself to the resulting situation and survive the strain; but, he added, "the strangulation of world trade for others would spell catastrophe."

Mr. Wilcox anticipated objections that the United States had not always practiced "the gospel that it now presumes to preach." Its present proposals should demonstrate that it could learn from history.

Regulation Of World Trade

(The Times of London)

AT THE CONFERENCE in London on trade and employment Sir Stafford Cripps stated the case for a general relaxation of restrictions on international trade, and for concentration by each country on policies of full employment which are sponsored by the United States Government, and given support by the British Government. He emphasized that the conference would be working at a plan which was "an essential part of the United Nations . . . to stabilize peace."

The plan was "pregnant with the greatest and most hopeful possibilities for the peoples of the world," and the allies must show that they did not need the dangers and fears of war to induce them to "create full employment or to co-operate one with another on economic matters."

Sir Stafford Cripps dealt candidly with some of the reservations, suspicions, and ambitions which must be in the minds of delegates. In the field of economic matters, he said, nations were most sensitive about their own political sovereignty, and their manufacturers and raw material producers alike wanted to get the best of both worlds—freedom from restraint and interference on the one hand, and on the other protection from all the greater difficulties of extreme competition. But the economic chaos between the wars must have taught them the need for rules and regulations between nations in their conduct of trade.

THIS WOULD mean making sacrifices, not the easiest and most obvious, but those which would contribute most to the general welfare. Of course, Sir Stafford Cripps pointed out, they would be stout champions of their particular causes, but not necessarily "selfishly stubborn champions." Full employment in each country was basic to an expansionist world trade policy; it was the surest safeguard against that policy of exporting unemployment which started international depressions. It would have to be borne in mind that the present pattern of direction of world trade had been formed by a whole complex of national laws and practices, and that while industries and schemes of agricultural and mineral development have been built up on that basis.

The trade of some countries must not be expanded at the expense of the trade of others. "If," Sir Stafford Cripps urged, "we are going to attempt . . . to divert trade from accustomed to new channels, or to introduce new trade into old channels, we must be certain that we create the new channel or widen the old at the same time as we are diverting the flow."

Mr. Clair Wilcox, head of the United States delegation, said that the proposals for expansion of world trade and employment published last December and the suggested charter for an international trade organization published on September 20 give expression in principle to the policy of the United States.

THE PRESENT draft is not a product of pure altruism. We conceive the principle it embodies to be in the interest of the United States. Large exports of agricultural produce and of mass-produced goods, large imports of basic materials and an indefinite expansion of the variety of demand for consumer goods were targets of the United States. If such abundant trade was essential to the economic health of the United States, how much more essential was it to

Banker Says Wartime Controls Must Be Constantly Reviewed

MONTREAL — Recognizing that some wartime controls must continue through the present emergencies, economic controls generally should be under constant review and eliminated when their necessity has lapsed, B.C. Gardner, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, said here Thursday.

Speaking before the association's annual meeting, Mr. Gardner, who is vice-president and general manager of the Bank of Montreal, said: "I am a firm believer in the system of ordered free enterprise and the free market. I believe that some of the wartime controls must continue until emergencies are over, but I also believe that many such controls tend to become fixed and bureaucratic and that in a democratic country they should be under constant examination, and that the aim should be to eliminate them the moment their necessity can no longer be proved. We welcome, therefore, governmental assurances that such is the present policy."

After referring to the accumulations of money and savings now in the hands of the Canadian people at a time of acute scarcity of consumer goods, Mr. Gardner said governmental controls were only one anti-inflationary factor. The real control of the price level rested on the common sense and thrift of the Canadian people and their respect for law.

"The average Canadian," he continued, "is hard-headed and thrifty; wartime educative methods consolidated his native tendency to save. He balks at high or inflated prices; nor does he hunt or bid omnivorously for goods in short supply. When supply begins to appear, he declines to buy if prices seem to him unreasonable. Educated to value money, he has acquired something of a 'stake' and is pleased with it. His common sense will not sanction his letting it go except for tangibles at what he considers fair prices."

Mr. Gardner reported that of 8,600 bank employees who entered the armed services during the war, 677 have their lives and nearly 6,000 have returned to work in the banks. Some await demobilization and others are in military hospitals.

NO PROBLEM

These men and women, now returning to peacetime jobs, are no problem, quite the contrary, said Mr. Gardner. "Their experience in the service of freedom seems to have heightened their competency, broadened the sum of their knowledge and has added confidence to their bearing. Their work, I am sure, will enhance the relations of the banks with customers and public." He also paid tribute to the staffs who manned the banks during the war, working long hours and shouldering many additional duties.

In a general review of economic conditions in Canada, Mr. Gardner expressed hope "that progress in the direction of multilateral trade may not be overtaken or offset by the continuance or emergence of bilateral trading and bulk purchasing and selling through government agencies. Whatever the advantages that may be urged in favor of such devices, their basic weakness is that they build up a wall of government between individuals in the countries concerned."

"Under such conditions, discussions as to price, quality, and terms of sale that would be part of the ordinary course of private trading, all too often become elevated into diplomatic incidents, in which are the seeds of international controversy.

REMOVE BARRIERS

"I am convinced that restoration, not only of world trade but of world order itself, requires a breaking down of these barriers and a reweaving of the fabric of day-to-day transactions between individuals in different parts of the world, governed by the accepted standards of business ethics and practice and at prices determined by the free play of the market."

In his survey of general economic conditions in Canada, Mr. Gardner referred to assets of $7,342,000,000, double the prewar figures, held by Canada's 10 chartered banks at Aug. 31, 1946.

PRIDE IN LIABILITIES

"While as individual banks," he continued, "we sometimes pride ourselves upon our assets, I have often felt that we ought to take equal, if not greater, pride in our liabilities. Most of our liabilities are the deposits. We owe them to depositors—millions of individuals—all over Canada. They constitute impressive evidence of the confidence in which our banks are held by millions of persons. The depositor is satisfied to lodge his money with his bank, knowing that his bank is so operated that he can draw out his money or any part of it, in cash, any time he wishes. Our assets are but the counterpart of these deposits."

Mr. Gardner noted that business volume in Canada has continued to drop from the high levels of war activity, but still is 85 per cent greater than during the five years before the war. Record production has been achieved in some industries but others have been beset by uncertainties, difficulties and changing conditions. The direct loss of productive effort resulting from prolonged industrial disputes during the past six months has been greater than in any previous year and "it will be months yet before the smooth flow of many materials and finished products is restored."

The comb has been used by all peoples and in every age for dressing the hair.

Available, but still in limited quantities.

Labor 'Rebels' Get Shaw's Support

LONDON (CP)—George Bernard Shaw Thursday night accused the government of "preparation for the next war" and joined in moral support of Labor rebels who are trying to force a shift in British foreign policy.

The 90-year-old playwright levelled this criticism at Prime Minister Attlee in a letter to the leftist weekly, New Statesman and Nation.

He "has quite definitely committed the party to the old Foreign Office routine of security first, reparations second, sparing for the balance of power third, and disarmament, after all the other states have disarmed, last—with meanwhile preparations for the next war."

Mr. Shaw said the Labor Party had "no foreign policy," a statement which he said also "is true of Russian diplomacy."

"Stalin knows better," he commented, "but Molotov's Danubian policy seems to us an exact copy of Churchill's."

2 Brothers Lost In Northern Areas

CALGARY (CP)—A similar fate appears, by a curious coincidence, to have overtaken two brothers named Barber, one from Lethbridge and one from Jamestown, N.Y. Both are missing in the snow-swept wilderness of Canada's Northwest Territories.

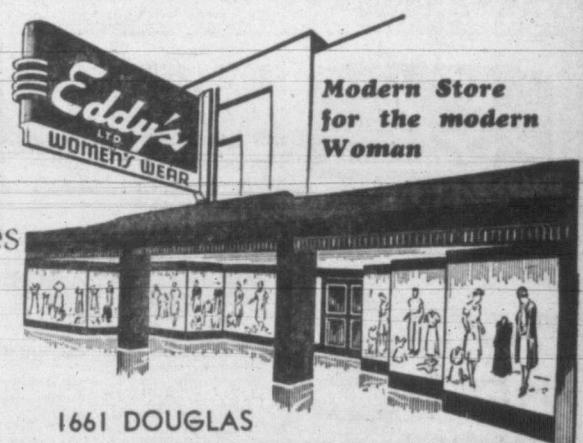

Jack Barber, the Lethbridge brother was reported missing on a tractor trip along the Canol pipeline in the region of Sheldon Lake, Yukon. At Lethbridge, it was learned his mother last heard from him a month ago.

Joe Barber, the Jamestown, N.Y., brother, has been missing since last May, 200 miles north of Port Nelson, B.C., where the airplane he was ferrying to Alaska made a forced landing. The plane was located by search parties, but Barber had gone.

Would Banish Smoke

VANCOUVER (CP)—Senator G. G. McGeer, Civic Non-Partisan Association candidate for mayor in the December civic election, told a Lions Club luncheon Thursday that if Vancouver is to be a "clean" city, coal-burning railway engines must be banished from the city limits. He said engines powered by electricity or diesel should bring trains from Coquitlam into Vancouver.

Richard Lake Married In Vancouver

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lake cut their wedding cake after their marriage Thursday evening.

Archdeacon F. C. Cornish of Victoria, who had baptized the bride, assisted by Rev. Gower of Vancouver, read the nuptial service at a candlelight ceremony in St. Paul's Anglican Church, Vancouver, when Frances Elizabeth Averil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Langton Weatley of that city and Richard Lancelot, third son of Sir Richard and Lady Lake, 1280 Newport Avenue, Victoria, were united in marriage.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white jersey velvet, slightly en train, fashioned with high round neck, long sleeves and draped peplum. From her Mary Stuart head-dress her fine net veil cascaded to the floor. She wore a pearl necklace and carried her mother's white prayer-book, topped with a cluster of pink orchids and rosebuds. She proceeded to the altar on the arm of her father.

Matron of honor was Mrs. S. M. Rothman of Trail, a sister of the bride, wearing a floor-length gown of maroon crepe accented with silver, with model hat trimmed with ostrich plums, matching gloves and cascade bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

The groomsmen were Lancelot C. Lake, the bridegroom's younger brother. A reception was held at the church hall. Owing to the illness of the bride's mother, her father and the parents of the groom assisted the young couple in receiving.

Lady Lake was attired in black with turquoise lace. She wore a corsage bouquet of pale yellow rosebuds. After a honeymoon motor trip on Vancouver Island, Mr. and Mrs. Lake will reside in Vancouver.

For traveling, the bride chose a two-piece dress of brown corded silk with gold metallic trim, brown accessories and fur coat.

Victoria Girl Model In Montreal

MISS BARBARA-ANN CLEEMOFF

judges, all top hairdressers from New York and Chicago.

Miss Cleemoff, who left Victoria about three months ago for eastern Canada to become a professional model, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Cleemoff, 2818 Austin Avenue. A sister, Mrs. R. C. Campbell, lives at 2035 Oak Bay Avenue.

Donovan Filewod
Wed In Toronto

A ceremony which took place in Toronto, at St. Cuthbert's Anglican Church, Oct. 25, united in marriage Miss Eleanor Frances Chinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Nelson Chinn, Toronto, and Donovan Clement Filewod, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Filewod, Lampson Street, Esquimalt. Rev. Canon Lamb officiating.

Entering the church with her father, the bride wore a gown of Italian silk brocade fashioned on princess lines and featuring a bustle back. A coronet, trimmed in seed pearls, held her full-length veil and she carried a shower bouquet of white chrysanthemums and sweetheart roses.

Miss Marilyn Chinn attended her sister as maid of honor, wearing a gown of pale blue nylon taffeta. Two bridesmaids, Miss Shirley Filewod, the groom's sister, and Miss June Jones, wore similar taffeta dresses of pale rose.

Douglas Walker was best man and Garrick Filewod and Johnny Kay were ushers.

A reception followed at King Edward Hotel, where mothers of the young couple assisted in receiving guests. Toasts were proposed to the young couple and to the parents of the bride, and her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Fullerton of Toronto on the occasion of their 24th and 47th wedding anniversaries, respectively.

For a motor trip to Niagara and Buffalo, the bride chose a dress of pale blue wool and a topcoat of grey Bombay lamb with cherry-choke accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Filewod will make their home in Ottawa.

Y.P. Societies

St. John's—The vice-president, John Pettit, welcomed new members, Molly Taylor, Lorraine Hemming and Hilda Rowley to the recent meeting. The evening was spent in cleaning up the workroom and in making articles for the Christmas carnival. A court whist party will be held Tuesday at the home of Miss Irene Noel. It was decided to have films shown on every fourth Sunday at the social hour.

Chinese United—The Chinese United Young People's Union met with Kay Peat in the chair. Isabel Lee and Helene Lee gave the devotional. A Bible class is being formed under the direction of Mr. Frank Hall to meet Sundays at the church from 2:30 to 3:30. Sam Gung, Muriel Lee, Isabel Lee and Frank Hong were appointed nominating committee to draw up a slate of officers for annual elections at the next meeting, at the Oriental Home, December 13.

Stardust Revue At Royal Exciting And Different

"Snowtime for Fun" is the intriguing title of one of the spectacular numbers arranged for the dance revue to be given by pupils of Miss Wynne Shaw at the Royal Theatre on Monday and Tuesday at 8:15, under the auspices of the Junior Auxiliary to the Royal Jubilee Hospital. Driving the sled in which a stout "snowman" is shown in the above photograph is "Little Miss Stardust," Jeanie Burns, while beside her are seen two "snowballs," Beverley Ivings and Shirley Green.

The "reindeer" are (front row) Rae Evenden and Jacqueline Ivings; second row, Doris Benwell and Shirley Cammlade; third row, Irene Young and Elenore Straith.

Tickets for the annual dance display which is being held under the patronage of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. C. A. Banks, the Premier and Mrs. John Hart and the Mayor and Mrs. P. E. George are now on sale at the Royal Theatre box office or may be obtained from members of the Junior Auxiliary

Wismer Plans Board For Borstal Home

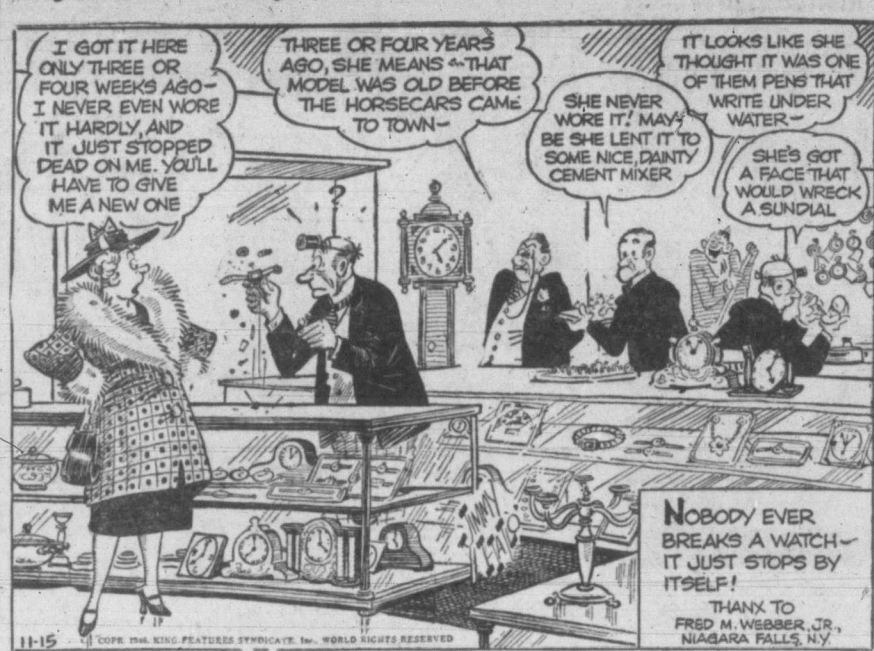

J. Pitcairn Hogg, legislative counsel, has been named by Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer as his representative on an inter-department committee to start work on plans to re-establish a Borstal institution for youthful delinquents.

Representatives of the education, finance, health and welfare departments are also expected to serve on the committee.

A Borstal school was operated on the mainland from 1937 to 1942 when it was closed by the late Attorney-General R. L. Maitland.

The committee is being set up to avoid mistakes in the establishment of the new home. It is expected to start work next week.

Magistrate H. S. Wood and Vancouver probation officers will attend the committee's first meeting in Victoria. Mr. Wismer plans to place the blueprint of the committee before the John Howard Society and other organizations and citizens after it has been drafted.

Build simple meals around substantial soups

HEINZ Condensed Vegetable Soup

SHEPHERD'S PIE

3 tablespoons diced onion
3 tablespoons diced green pepper
2 tablespoons mild flavoured dripping or butter
1 lb. raw, ground beef or 1 cup cooked ground beef
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups can Heinz Condensed Vegetable Soup undiluted
1 cup mashed potatoes

Sauté onion and green pepper in fat until tender. Add meat and brown. If raw meat is used cook thoroughly. Sprinkle with salt. Add soup and simmer, uncovered, for 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Place in baking dish and top with mashed potatoes. Bake in a hot oven (400° F.) for 20 minutes or until potatoes are well browned.

Mayor George Heads U.B.C.M. Committee

Mayor Percy George has been named chairman of the special superannuation committee of the Union of B.C. Municipalities. It was learned Thursday. He succeeds Ald. John Bennett of Vancouver, who was chairman of the committee last year.

Other members of the committee are Mayor W. M. Mott of New Westminster, and Ald. Charles Jones of Vancouver.

The committee has already requested Norman Baker, head of the Civil Service Commission, and deputy provincial secretary to submit actuarial surveys and figures on the cost of increasing the superannuation allowance to civic employees.

CRACK-UP

HERBERT MARSHALL CLAIRE TREVOR PAT O'BRIEN

with RAY COLLINS - WALLACE FORD
 DEAN HARENS - Directed by IRVING RAY

FOLLOW THE CROWDS TO THE

'Crack-Up' Dramatic Dominion Feature

Baffling mystery and turbulent romance are the twin themes of RKO Radio's dramatic new offering, "Crack-Up," starring Pat O'Brien, Claire Trevor and Herbert Marshall, now at the Dominion Theatre.

O'Brien in his role of art expert and lecturer at a New York museum attempts to solve the mystery of a train journey during which he was slugged, causing a temporary mental crack-up. He uncovers an international art racket, but in the midst of his investigations one of his colleagues at the museum is found murdered, and he is accused of the crime.

Miss Trevor, O'Brien's fiancée, is on the staff of a sophisticated art magazine. Her contacts with men in the art world, notably Marshall, supposedly a British art expert, causes O'Brien considerable jealousy. Marshall turns out to be a Scotland Yard operative working with the New York police, interested only in breaking up a ring of crooks engaged in sabotaging and forging priceless paintings, and not Miss Trevor.

IN DRAMATIC MYSTERY — Claire Trevor and Herbert Marshall appearing with Pat O'Brien in R.K.O. Radio's "Crack-Up," currently showing at the Dominion Theatre.

YORK THEATRE

Rosalind Russell and Lee Bowman, currently starring in Columbia Pictures' gay comedy, "She Wouldn't Say Yes," at the York Theatre, will continue until Saturday night. Featured players include Adele Jergens, Charles Winninger, Harry Davenport and Sara Haden. Virginia Van Upp produced and collaborated on the screenplay. Alexander Hall directed.

OAK BAY, PLAZA THEATRES

"Canyon Passage," currently at the Oak Bay and Plaza Theatres, has the distinction of being the first full-length technicolor picture to be filmed in the State of Oregon. Dana Andrews, Brian Donlevy and Susan Hayward are co-starring in the spectacular film which was produced by Walter Wanger for Universal release.

Location scouts for Universal spent three weeks traveling some 3,000 miles, looking for sites in southern Oregon, the locale of the story.

Among the scenic spots used as settings were: The Lava Caps at McKenzie Pass, Jefferson Creek, Foster Creek, Muir Creek, The Rogue River, Todd Lake, Diamond Lake, Crater Lake, Clearwater Falls, Natural Bridge, Dutchman's Flats and Matolius Meadows.

CAPITOL THEATRE

The first film based on the hair-raising exploits of the men and women of the Office of Strategic Services — Intelligence agency — is now at the Capitol Theatre. It is Paramount's thrill-jammed adventure, "O.S.S.," co-starring Alan Ladd and Geraldine Fitzgerald, with Patric Knowles, John Hoyt, Richard Benedict, Harold Vermilyea, among other excellent performers.

"O.S.S." is a gem of an action film. Never a dull moment, it races along from thrill to thrill, giving the audience more entertainment per foot of film than is generally found in even the fastest-paced movies. It features Alan Ladd at his best, outfighting, out-shooting, out-witting his adversaries, and there are many in this exciting tale of sabotage in Nazi-occupied France.

To Lecture On Law

Professor G. F. Curtis, dean of the Faculty of Law at U.B.C., will give the third in a series of lectures by U.B.C. faculty members to the Victoria University Extension Association on Nov. 25, at Central Junior High School. Professor Curtis' topic will be "The English Common Law."

Professor Curtis was appointed Dean of the Faculty of Law at U.B.C. in September, 1946. Before coming to U.B.C. Mr. Curtis was on the faculty at Dalhousie University for 11 years.

ROYAL THEATRE

Even a famed Canadian artist is a "ham" at heart!

Lieut. Grant Macdonald, whose art work is internationally famous, was not content to rest upon his laurels as an artist — he became an actor in the motion picture production, "Meet The Navy," now at the Royal Theatre.

The artist, whose fine sketches of navy life have appeared in leading publications here and abroad, does a character bit in the movie, playing the part of a Canadian train conductor.

"Meet The Navy" on the screen is the same rollicking, tuneless navy blue revue it was when it took Canada, Britain and the Continent by storm.

"Meet The Navy" was filmed at Eelstree by British National Films.

RIO THEATRE

Called the most gripping drama of desire—and murder—the screen has ever known, "Fallen Angel," the new 20th Century-Fox hit starring Alice Faye, Dana Andrews and Linda Darnell, currently at the Rio Theatre.

Thrill-created by Otto Preminger who brought the never-to-be-forgotten hit, "Laura," to the screen, "Fallen Angel" presents Alice Faye in her first all-dramatic role. Also included in the outstanding cast are Charles Bickford, Anne Revere, Bruce Cabot, John Carradine and Percy Kilbride.

Garage Blaze

Heavy fire damage from a blaze which broke out Thursday night in the Wilson & Cabellu service station on Colwood corner was prevented by combined efforts of the Colwood and Dry-dock fire brigades.

The 12 men battling the flames removed five cars in order to prevent the blaze spreading and damaging other buildings.

BOOKS

HISTORICAL VERSE

"Ballads of the Pacific Northwest," by Robert Allison Hood (Ryerson Press).

AN INTERESTING volume of historical verse, published in the year of Vancouver's jubilee celebration, is this collection of ballads written by Mr. Hood.

The poems are divided into five sections, each appended with historical documentation of the events related poetically in ballad style. In his "pictures of verse from a romantic period long ago" Mr. Hood tells some of the story of Captain Vancouver's discovery of the site of the present city of Vancouver, of Maquinna and the slaughter of the crew of the "Boston," of Mackenzie's trip from Canada by land, the story of David Thompson, Dr. John McLoughlin, and several Indian tales.

HOW RADIO FITS IN

"The People Look at Radio," by Paul F. Lazarsfeld and Harry Field (University of North Carolina Press).

THIS IS A detailed statistical study of what a cross-section of the American public think about present-day radio. programs, what the average radio listener thinks he or she wants on the radio, and the place radio is taking in community and family life.

Included in the volume are 90 pages of text, and 57 pages of appendices, containing the tabulated results of the questions submitted to more than 3,000 men and women from every walk of life.

The authors, working with material obtained by the University of Denver's National Opinion Research Centre, draw few conclusions, although they do discuss at some length the place of advertising on the air, presentation of news, educational possibilities of radio, and the type of entertainment which has the widest audience appeal.

From the results of their studies it would appear that the more education the individual has the less he depends upon radio for information and entertainment and the more critical he is of the program offerings.

On the other hand, it would seem that radio-purveying of news is contributing greatly to developing new interests among less educated people and "thus has done a great service to democracy's need for an informed population."

The book will not have wide reader appeal, but should be a valuable reference for all connected with the radio industry. All the studies and conclusions are carefully documented.

French Horses In Grand Clean-Up On British Tracks

LONDON (CP) — They came, they ran, they conquered. That is the story of French racehorses on British tracks this year.

They came to Britain by ship and air and from June till the end of October won 22 races, representing total stakes of £39,421 ($157,684) and untold thousands of pounds for their betting owners. Newspapers on both sides of the Channel set reporters to find an explanation for the unprecedented series of victories, and no one yet has said that the French horses are better.

The theme predominating in the answers is dislocation of British racing by the war—and food. One French owner said the British turf in 1946 could be compared to the French turf in 1919. One said British owners were "a little too efficient in cutting down the diet of the country's best horses under war-time regulations."

BLAMES JOCKEYS

Another explanation offered by the French was that British jockeys concentrated too much on what the "name" French horses were doing in various races, preventing their own mounts from doing better.

Some British—and French owners, trainers and jockeys call it a cycle of good fortune, but the summing-up was made by a Paris sports writer who said: "Our run of victories is due partly to the horses' food, partly to the fact that there was more racing in France than in Britain during the war, but mainly because, while Britain has neglected the breeding of stayers, France has concentrated on them."

Richard Two Points Off Scoring Lead

Although held scoreless during his last two games, Billy Taylor of Detroit Red Wings continues to lead the National Hockey League scoring race with his five goals and 11 assists for 16 points.

Maurice Richard, Montreal, climbed to within two points of Taylor as he scored a goal last night to bring his total to 10 plus four assists to take over second spot. Roy Conacher, Detroit, notched two assists to hold down third spot with five goals and six assists for 11 points.

George Allen, Montreal, has fourth spot with five and five for 10. Five players are grouped with nine points each for fifth berth.

Vic Murdoch Turns To Fight Refereeing

Vic Murdoch, one of Victoria's better known fighters and holder of the United States Junior A.A.U. flyweight title, has decided to hang up his gloves and devote his boxing interest to refereeing. Murdoch has been named official referee of the Greater Victoria Boxing Association and will be the third man in the ring for the amateur card at the Armories, Nov. 30.

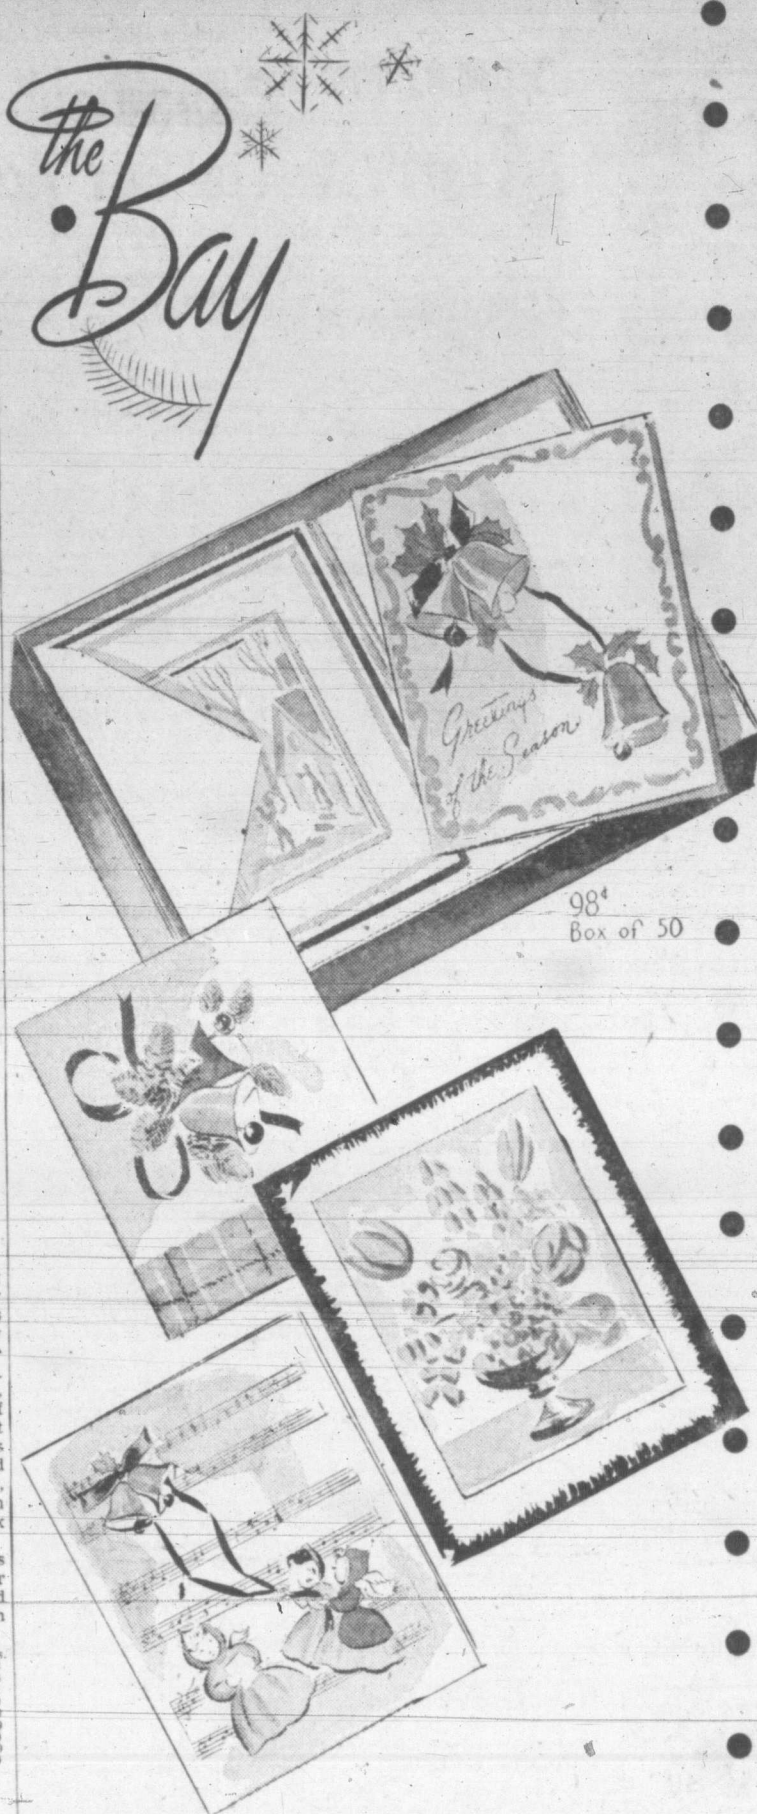

Murdoch, who tips the scales at 110 pounds, has literally fought himself out of opponents in the Pacific Northwest and for that reason will retire. Since his first fight in 1939 Murdoch has built up an enviable ring record. In 1941 he won the Golden Gloves titles at both Vancouver and Seattle and repeated his double win in 1944.

The following year Murdoch was overseas and finished runner-up in the Imperial Services championships.

Name 'Peg Bombers

WINNIPEG (CP) — Coach Jack West of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, western grid champions, today named the 24 players who will make the trip east for the Grey Cup Canadian final Nov. 30. Their eastern opponents have yet to be decided.

West said that following a week of brisk workouts he had carefully weeded the squad to the 24-player limit. West did not reveal his starting line-up for the classic, but the players selected to carry western hopes for their first Canadian title since 1941 included: Ends, Harry Fitzgibbons, Nate Shore, Bert Ianonne; tackles, Martin Gainer, Jack Mannors, Paul Frederickson, Al Passman; guards, Bill Ceretti, Ernie Ahoft, Johnny Hammond, Bud Irving; centres, Mel Wilson, Rod McDonald; line sub, Kas Vidruk; quarterbacks, Walter Dobler, Don Hiney; halves, Bill Ordway, Harry Hood, Doug Gauthier, Jim Foubister, Don Smith, Ken Draper, Norm Geller and George Grant.

Lovick's Agency Serves All Parts Of Island

Lovick's News Agency of Victoria was formed in 1922, when Mrs. H. Lovick and the late Harold Lovick came to Victoria from New Westminster, B.C., and purchased the then newspaper and magazine distributing business of Paulin and Colby. At that time the firm was located on lower Government Street, with a personnel of three. A number of magazines and newspapers that were handled by the agency in 1922 are still distributed by them today. Among the originals are many of the favorites of today's reading public, MacLean's, Seattle P.I., McCall's, Argosy, Cosmopolitan, Good Housekeeping and Collier's.

In 1924, Stan V. Wright, who is now managing partner of the firm, joined Mr. Lovick. By this time the business was progressing rapidly and necessitated the moving to larger premises. In 1926 new quarters were established on Gordon Street. In 1929 still larger quarters were occupied on Humboldt Street and finally the firm moved in 1936 manager for Lovick's News, joined the staff in 1936. Besides being well-known for his sales and promotion ability with the newsdealers Mr. Turner is a prominent figure in basketball circles in the city.

Rex Jackson and Frank Laughlin, sales promotion, became members of the organization in 1938. Both served as R.C.A.F. officers during the war, returning to the agency on discharge.

Seven members of Lovick's News Agency staff are veterans of the past war. They are Ralph McDonald, Frank Laughlin, Rex Jackson, Arthur Bell, Bob McKay, Edward McKim and Ken Appleby.

"We prefer to hire veterans," says Mr. Wright, "for their training in the services of our country makes them steady and responsible employees."

to its present location, 719 Courtney Street. By this time the staff had doubled. Many new lines of magazines and newspapers had joined the ranks of the old favorites, amongst them being Reader's Digest, Liberty, Saturday Evening Post, Ladies' Home Journal, True Story, Modern Screen, Toronto Star Weekly and Pocket Books.

FOUNDER PASSES

Tragedy came to the firm in 1938 with the untimely passing of Mr. Lovick. His intimate knowledge of every phase of the wholesale magazine and newspaper business was a great loss.

Hundreds of friends both personal and in the trade, were saddened by his death.

Mr. Wright at this time took over the management of the firm. Armed with his years of experience in the magazine business the agency reached into larger fields of distribution. Hereafter the company had centred its operation in and around Victoria. With its expansion the districts of Shawnigan, Duncan, Chemainus, Ladysmith and Nanaimo were added.

SERVE UPPER ISLAND

One year later, 1939, further expansion was undertaken when the distributing rights for Port Alberni, Alberni and Qualicum were obtained from Jack Harris of Port Alberni.

This year, 1946, has shown another step in the progress of Lovick's News Agency with the addition of a truck run to Parksville, Courtenay, Cumberland and Comox. From a humble beginning in 1922, in small quarters on Government Street with a staff of three, Lovick's News Agency has shown 24 years of progress. Today it has 24 employees to carry out its large distribution of magazines and newspapers. It has 154 agents serving Vancouver Island's approximate 150,000 people with reading material. In the past year Lovick's had the immense job of supplying Victoria and Vancouver Island residents with 5,982,756 magazines, newspapers and pocket editions.

Ralph McDonald was associated with the magazine business in Vancouver prior to joining the staff in 1937. Mr. McDonald served as a flying instructor in the R.C.A.F. during the war and immediately upon discharge returned to the firm in the capacity assistant manager.

Modern Fleet Distributes Newspapers and Magazines

The growth of Lovick's News Agency can be seen at a glance from these pictures. The top photo shows the fleet of trucks and cars used today to distribute 5,982,756 newspapers and magazines on Vancouver Island each year. On the extreme left is the Model T which was used in the 1920's when the firm had only three employees. As business progressed the speedier 1930 model truck was added. Now in 1946's the modern fleet pictured is necessary to carry out the distribution of newspapers and magazines on Vancouver Island.

'Moderate' Improvement In Foods Recently Scarce To Come Soon

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's stock of butter dropped last month, although fluid milk, cream and butter were sufficient for local needs, the Prices Board reported today in its October food survey. The board predicted this winter Canadians will find a "moderate" improvement in supplies of types of food which have been scarce during the year.

Cereals, packaged flour, cream corn, corn syrup, popcorn, yellow-eye and white beans, bananas, canned goods, apples and potatoes were in better supply during October.

Retailers in districts where fresh milk is available gave priority on canned milk to infants and invalids. Nov. 1 these "restricted areas" were widened where priority sale of canned milk is by coupon. In the first eight months of 1946 tinned milk sales exceeded those for the whole of 1944.

Other than an increase in fats throughout northwestern Ontario, and edible tallow on the prairies, there was no visible improvement in the fats and oils supply. Domestic production of flaxseed, sunflower and rapeseed crops in Canada showed an improvement over 1945.

Except for a shortage of lamb, mutton and pork products in southern Alberta, meat was generally plentiful. Scarities prevailed, however, in the urban sections of the prairies and in Ontario.

Supplies of chicken and fowl were adequate, and large processing plants in Manitoba worked to full capacity.

Stocks of canned salmon were low in British Columbia. Winnipeg was short of frozen fish.

Eggs were plentiful in B.C. and on the prairies. Manitoba imported a quantity from B.C., and New Brunswick wholesalers received supplies from western Canada.

Sugar beet processing which began late in September gave indications of a better supply than a year ago. Canada's present supply of sugar adequately met rationing requirements.

T.B. Survey Canvass To Start Monday

Canvassers will start work Monday in Victoria West to make appointments for the residents of the area to participate in the free chest X-ray survey starting Nov. 28. G. B. Gowden, chairman of the committee in charge, said today.

Mr. Bowden stressed that no one will be denied an X-ray because he or she comes without appointment. The mobile unit is capable of X-raying more people than are being given appointments, he said, and care is being taken to leave enough time for people who may come in from outside points such as Esquimalt.

or View Royal, without appointment.

Dr. J. L. Murray Anderson, medical health officer, urged full support to the anti-tuberculosis campaign, pointing out "the early detection drive is a community activity. In the final analysis, the eradication of tuberculosis in this community and throughout the country, depends upon the co-operation of the people with the medical profession, the tuberculosis agencies and the official health departments."

Nova Scotia Drafts
New Financial Plan

HALIFAX (CP) — Federal government financial proposals in their present form are not acceptable to the Nova Scotia government, Premier Angus L. Macdonald said in a statement today.
He added that the government
now is preparing alternative proposals for submission to federal authorities, but gave no indication as to what the new provincial suggestions might be.

The Premier's statement followed Thursday night's caucus of Liberal Party members and the four-day cabinet meeting last week during which the provincial cabinet reached "unanimous views" on the federal proposals.

"Neither the original proposals with their subsequent amendments nor the offer contained in Mr. Halsey's budget speech are wholly satisfactory to the government of Nova Scotia," the Premier said.

Thursday night the Premier had expressed hope that the Dominion and provincial administrations could reach a "common ground" for an agreement to replace the Dominion-provincial wartime financial agreements terminating Nov. 30.
So far three provinces — New Brunswick, Manitoba and Saskatchewan—have reached agreement with the Dominion.

Should Nova Scotia fail to come to terms with the Dominion government by the deadline at the end of this month, the province would be free to impose personal income tax.

Air Compressors Ordered For City

Canadian Fairbanks-Morse Co.
Ltd., Victoria Branch, has received a contract from the city to supply three Canadian Ingersoll Rand air compressors at a cost of $15,960 it was learned from G. F. Sharpe, purchasing agent, today.

The machines, two diesel-portable air compressors costing $12, 760, and one electric stationary air compressor for the shop costing $3,200, are part of the $55,000 worth of equipment authorized by the City Council for the public works department.

It is anticipated that the machines will be delivered by the beginning of the year, Mr.
Sharpe said.

A noted food expert reveals that the Russians are using food as a vital weapon in their long-range plan to communize Germany.
They're telling starving Germans, "Follow the communist banner, asserts that the present Russian plan for feeding the Germans is failing intentionally—while our own unrealistic policies in Germany are playing into the hands of the communists.

Airliner Crash Cause Not Found

AMSTERDAM (CP)—Officials of K.L.M. (Dutch) Airlines said today they could not explain the crash of a London-Amsterdam airliner in which 25 persons were killed here Thursday night, and declared the cause might never be known.

(Reuters news agency said in a dispatch from the Hague that a K.L.M. official had stated that too low landing speed leading to stalling was the cause of the crash. Reuters also said that 26 persons had been killed in the accident.)

Almost nothing was left of the airliner, which burned within seven minutes after it had cracked up while trying to land at the Schiphol airfield. There were no survivors among the 20 passengers and crew of five.

Sixteen of the passengers and four of the crew were Dutch, and the rest British. The victims included two well-known Dutchmen, novelist Herman de Man and Dr. J. Ridder, chief treasurer of the ministry of finance.

Physicians, Surgeons Meet In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—The two-day annual meeting and convocation of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada started today with a medical discussion led by Dr. A. T. Mathers of Winnipeg.

Today's speakers in the division of medicine included Dr. Lennox G. Bell, Winnipeg; Dr. G. L. Adamson, Winnipeg, and Dr. John W. Scott, Edmonton.

In the division of surgery Dr. H. Roche Robertson, Vancouver, and Dr. M. R. MacCharles, Winnipeg, spoke.

A joint medicine-surgery meeting will be held tomorrow, followed by the convocation at which diplomas will be awarded to Royal College lecturers.

Ganges I.O.D.E.

GANGES—The Ganges Chapter, I.O.D.E., met at the Ganges Inn, with the regent, Mrs. N. C. Best, in the chair. The members stood in silent tribute to Mrs. Martyn Jenkins, second vice-regent, who recently passed away.

A letter was read from the Provincial Chapter, concerning the endowment fund, and $25 was voted towards this, while $10 was voted to the shipping fund. Mrs. C. E. Baker was elected to the telephone committee to fill the vacancy left by Mrs. Martyn Jenkins. Tea hostesses were Misses Somone Chantelu and Shirley Wilson.

Charged In Court

MONTREAL (CP)—Amid loud squeals from their children, eight squatters, four of them women, were arraigned in Judge T. A. Fontaine's private chambers today on charges of illegal possession and were ordered to evacuate immediately the McGill College Avenue house they occupied last month.

The arraignment followed the arrest of the squatters early today in a move said to have forestalled invasion of an unnamed millionaire's 20-room house on Pine Avenue. All the accused were freed on parole or bail.

British Novelist Dies

AYESBURY, Bucks, Eng. (CP) May Sinclair, author of the novel "The Divine Fire," died Thursday at her home near here.

Miss Sinclair's first short stories were published in 1895 and "The Divine Fire," her first successful novel, was published in Britain and the United States in 1904.

A Fellow of the Royal Society of Literature since 1916, in 1912 Miss Sinclair wrote a biography of the Bronte sisters, "The Three Bontes," and in 1915 wrote a book on her wartime field ambulance experiences, "Journal of Impressions In Belgium." Her age was not known.

More Funds Needed For Blue Baby

The Lions Club of Victoria is in need of an additional $1,000 in order to send Janet No. 2—Victoria's second Blue Baby—to a hospital in the United States for a serious and complicated heart operation.

L. Farley, chairman of the club's publicity committee, said the fund-raising campaign, which commenced some time ago, was somewhat disappointing and indicated that businesses of the city would soon be approached for donations.

"The latest donation was from an old age pensioner of Mount St. Mary," said Mr. Farley. "It was not a large amount, but his heart was in the right place."

Last year the club raised more than $4,000 for Janet No. 1, and a balance of $1,200 from that fund has served as the nucleus of the present campaign.

Magazine Or Paper Make Practical Gift At Christmas Time

With Christmas only a few weeks away, many people are making out their Yuletide shopping lists. Maybe they are wondering what they can give Uncle Tom, Cousin Sadie or Brother Jim, that is both practical and enjoyable.

Smart people are solving this problem of Christmas shopping by purchasing gift magazine or newspaper subscriptions for their friends. This idea is becoming increasingly popular each succeeding year. It is the perfect gift, suitable for persons of any age.

Reading is a universal source of pleasure, and whether for relaxation or education is enjoyed by young and old, rich and poor alike. Persons in every walk of life enjoy and appreciate a gift that will bring them lasting pleasure and be a constant reminder week by week, or month by month, as the case might be, of the giver's thoughtfulness, and generosity.

PRACTICAL GIFTS

In these days when the cost of living is continually rising, the price of magazines and newspapers has remained at almost the same level. The gift of a magazine subscription fits everyone's budget and thus becomes one of the most economical and practical gifts one could give.

Besides this when every day commodities are scarce and difficult to obtain clever folk can solve their Christmas shopping difficulties by a gift subscription to his or her favorite magazine and thus avoid shopping in crowded stores and waiting in tiresome queues for hard-to-get articles.

Whatever one's taste in reading it can be found in the wide variety of magazines, periodicals and newspapers distributed to leading booksellers and newsstands by Lovick's News Agency, a business which has rapidly expanded over the past few years until it now covers Vancouver Island.

Pictorial View Of How Lovick's Distribute Approximately 6 Million Publications Yearly

DOCK—From all parts of the world, newspapers and magazines arrive daily at Victoria. Lovick's pick up their tons of publication parcels and haul them to warehouse, where they are unparcelled and stacked for distribution.

LAYOUT TABLES—Now the newspapers and magazines are on the layout tables. Individual newsstands are allotted copies at these distribution tables and tied for delivery to them.

BILLING—The next process is that of billing. From sheets containing all past sales records of the dealer, he is invoiced for the periodicals about to be delivered to him.

DELIVERY—From the layout tables the magazines are now loaded to the delivery trucks. Lovick's have 154 sales outlets throughout the city and island. Deliveries are made several times a week.

CHECK-UP—Pictured is Lovick's check-up man at the V.I. Coach Lines Newsstand. Stocks are checked several times during the sales period of a publication and copies moved from dealer to dealer insuring maximum sales. Reports of these sales are important for future allotments to dealer.

RETURN BOOKS—In order to base his next press run unsold copies are returned to agency when the new issue arrives, where they pass through in reverse order to outgoing magazines and eventually arrive back at the publishers (Dead Loss).

Condemned Woman Says Mother Bribed

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Evelyn Dick, under death sentence for the March torso murder of her husband, charged in effect Thursday that the Crown had bribed her mother to testify against her and that she herself had been given only one choice—testify in murder trial of her father and William Bohozuk or die on the gallows.

In her appeal against conviction and sentence to be hanged Jan. 7, Mrs. Dick said her mother, Mrs. Alexander MacLean, "was used as a Crown witness against me after first being rewarded by the withdrawal of a charge against herself."

"It was intimated to me that if I did not testify against others charged with the same crime the recommendation of mercy by the jury would receive scant consideration."

The 27-year-old woman's father, William MacLean, and her one-time friend, Bohozuk, both charged with the murder of her husband, John Dick, stood trial during October for two days. Then, when the convicted Mrs. Dick refused to testify for the Crown the jury was dismissed and the case of MacLean and Bohozuk was remanded to Jan. 16.

One Of Victoria's Pioneer Newsstands

One of Victoria's oldest magazine and newspaper dealers is Wachter's Cigar and Newsstand, 1320 Douglas Street. It has remained under the same ownership since 1906. Tolmie J. Wachter is shown standing in the entrance of his shop. One of the largest displays of Reader's Digest magazine ever presented in B.C. is shown on the right of Mr. Wachter. This newsstand also enjoys an exceptionally large sale of the Toronto Star Weekly. The newsstand of A. H. Hartley is Victoria's pioneer shop, having been under the same management since 1902. Hartley's carry a complete line of all the popular magazines and newspapers. Other newsstands which have had their original owners for over 25 years are the Horseshoe News, Jimmy Little, Aaronson's Drug Store and the Fairfield Pharmacy.

New Traffic Light In Operation

On Thursday a new traffic signal light was put in operation at the Fort and Government Streets intersection.

Installation of the light was authorized by the City Council a year and a half ago, but delayed delivery of parts held up the installation until now, according to Police Chief J. A. McLellan. Authorization for calling of tenders on a new-type traffic light for installation on Douglas Street was recently authorized by the City Council.

Scientists Find Way To Make Snow Fall

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP)—Need a little snow for spring use or tobogganing, or would you like to duck winter's white gift? The General Electric Co. thinks perhaps it can help you. G.E. reported Thursday that Vincenza J. Schaefer of the company's research laboratory had transformed a three-mile long cloud into snow by dispensing dry ice pellets over the cloud from an airplane. The experiment followed by a day G.E.'s disclosure Schaefer had produced artificial snowflakes in the laboratory. Dr. Irving Langmuir, associate laboratory director, said he believed the project might make possible the storage of moisture in winter for spring irrigation and water power programs.

WHAT DO YOU LIKE TO READ?

HUMOR, MYSTERY, ROMANCE, GLAMOUR? Dell Publishing Company has a story for everyone. This month over 16,000,000 of its publications are being bought on newsstands in United States and Canada.

Our comics, for instance. Ever read Walt Disney's Comics or Looney Tunes? or New Funnies? If not, you're missing some golden fun in life. Borrow a copy from your children. You'll feel 20 years younger, you'll laugh so. If the kids missed them, give them a treat—they're clean and humorous—no blood-and-thunder.

Want thrills? Our 25c Dell reprint novels have them. (Bet you didn't know: Every Dell book sold in Canada is printed in Canada.) The better mystery writers are found in Dell's Mystery Series. And if it's kissin' you're missin', Dell's best-selling romances will put you in that sentimental mood.

MODERN SCREEN, MODERN ROMANCES, SCREEN ROMANCES, too, are all Dell publications, along with numerous others. Listed at the side are some available at your newsstand. Check those that interest you and next time you pass your newsstand ask to see them.

Pension Delegation To Meet Cabinet

A delegation, 12 to 15 men strong, representing the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council, the Fraternal Order of Eagles, various old-age pension organizations of Greater Victoria, Anglican, United and Roman Catholic Churches, and other organizations, will meet the provincial cabinet at 10.30 next Tuesday morning asking for reform of the old-age pension allowances.

The delegation is being sent by a meeting of more than 300 delegates of various organizations and pensioners held in Victoria last week. At this meeting a committee was named to draft resolutions and meet the provincial government authorities.

The delegation is expected to ask the provincial cabinet to increase the old-age pension or the cost-of-living bonus paid pensioners.

Doctor Bound Over For Trial As Manslaughter Case Concludes

Dr. C. W. Duck was bound over for trial on the manslaughter charge arising out of the death of five-year-old Armando Barera last December from diphtheria, on bail of $2,000, this morning at the conclusion of his preliminary hearing in city police court.

Magistrate Henry C. Hall said at the conclusion of the defence case that he felt the evidence was "sufficient to put the accused on trial, but does not furnish such a strong presumption of guilt as to warrant his committal for trial."

Dr. Duck took the stand on his own behalf today, and in the course of his testimony denied emphatically the version of telephone conversations between himself and the parents of the child, Mr. and Mrs. F. Barera, given earlier in the course of the hearing by them.

He said, in answer to questions from Claude Harrison, prosecutor, that had Mrs. Barera stated, as she said on the witness stand, that the child was seriously ill, that he was running a high temperature of 103 to 104 degrees, or that she was worried about him, he would have immediately gone to the home.

Dr. Duck's version of the first telephone conversation concerning the child was that Mrs. Barera said, "My boy is sick with a sore throat, just like the girl. You needn't bother to come out. Just prescribe some of the sulphur drug for him."

Dr. Duck continued his story, saying he had prescribed a milder form of the sulphur drug than that prescribed for the older girls approximately 10 days previously, and that he had telephoned the prescription to the drugist.

He said his next word about the child was when the father telephoned him the evening of Dec. 28 and told him the boy was having difficulty in breathing. When he inquired about the child's temperature, the father went back to take it, phoning a second time half an hour later to say he had a temperature of 100 degrees.

On hearing this Dr. Duck testified he had ordered the father to give the child more of the medicine, and had ordered a refill when told that all the first bottle was gone. He told Mr. Barera to let him know if the child's condition changed.

The next word he heard of the child, he said, was at Jubilee Hospital where he was attending another case. The night superintendent told him of the admission of the child and the fact that the interne suspected diphtheria. Approximately an hour later, at 3 a.m. he saw the boy. "That was the first time I had seen the child," Dr. Duck said.

He related in detail the treatment given the child in hospital and said he went home half an hour later.

Later, he said he asked Dr. T. W. A. Gray, who was the family physician, to look at the child, and he saw him again himself shortly after noon.

"He didn't look good," Dr. Duck said, "so I ordered intravenous saline glucose. I was never called again, and about 3.30 that afternoon Dr. Gray called to say the boy had died."

At the conclusion of Dr. Duck's testimony, defence counsel again made a plea for dismissal of the charge, claiming there was no evidence to show negligence on the part of the doctor.

Jury Retires To Consider Verdict In Murder Trial

An Assize Court jury this afternoon retired to consider the charge of murder against Mrs. Ethel James, Esquimalt Indian, who is accused of slaying her five-year-old niece, Rosan, whose body was found to be disfigured with bruises, lacerations and wounds in the James' cabin on Viewfield Road.

In his charge to the jury, Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane said the jury could bring only one of three verdicts—guilty of murder, guilty of manslaughter and not guilty. He instructed the jury to judge the evidence fairly and conscientiously and to bring in a verdict in accordance with their consciences.

"The accused in this case is an Indian," he said, "but sex, race or religion makes no difference here."

He said if there were any doubts between murder and manslaughter, the jury must give the accused the benefit of the doubt. "If you even doubt the accused guilty of manslaughter, you are to bring in a verdict of not guilty."

Mr. Justice Macfarlane pointed out that the jury would have to judge the case on the evidence of two main witnesses—the accused and Dr. J. H. Moore. He said Dr. Moore had given evidence to the effect that the child had died as the result of two hemorrhages and multiple bruises, lacerations and wounds.

The accused, he said, on the other hand had testified that the child was in ill-health and suffered from boils on her head and legs and fingers.

While the judge made his charge to the jury, Mrs. James sat motionless in the prisoner's dock listening intently.

ACCUSED ON STAND

Thursday, the Indian woman took the witness stand in her own defence. When shown a photograph of the victim, she moved uneasily in the witness box and wiped a tear from her eyes.

She contended that the child fell against a stove on the morning of June 13 and later in the day fell against the woodpile. She added that Rosan was suffering from boils and was not in good health.

Under cross-examination, Mrs. James admitted that there was trouble between herself and her husband over the child. She said the child was her husband's sister's child and that he was fond of the girl.

Mrs. James could not account for bloodstains found on the child's clothing and on the upper part of a pair of women's shoes found in the James' cabin.

She also denied any knowledge of having washed a dress found by police in the home of the accused the day after the child died.

Bruce Hutchison Writing New Book

Bruce Hutchison will leave next week to discuss publication of his new book with his New York publishers.

The book will be fiction with the locale the British Columbia coast. The work is now nearly three-quarters complete. It will be Mr. Hutchison's third book. His first, "The Unknown Country," is still extremely popular in book stores and libraries, and was followed by his first book of fiction, "The Hollow Men."

British-Trained German Troops Aided Allies, Mountbatten Says

LONDON (CP)—The story of a brave group of anti-Nazi Germans who fought as commandos against their countrymen has at last been taken off the top-secret list.

As "Troop X" they fought with the Allies during the war and participated as small, specialized groups in raids at Dieppe, Walcheren, Salerno and other places.

Admiral Viscount Mountbatten, first Chief of Combined Operations, and Col. Peter Laycock, former commander of the Germans, recently revealed the saga of "Troop X."

Six of the highly-trained Germans, who, in the words of Lord Mountbatten, "believed in democracy and the right of liberty," fought with the 2nd Canadian Division at Dieppe Aug. 19, 1942. Larger numbers fought at Walcheren and Salerno.

The first news of the German participation in the Dieppe operation came from Lord Mountbatten in a speech at the Mansion House here Oct. 23.

"German commandos, trained in England, gave invaluable help to the Allies," Col. Laycock said later in referring to the Walcheren, Holland, raid of Nov. 1, 1944.

"We used them in clearing

Germans out of dugouts. A loud-speaker apparatus was employed through which the Germans addressed the Nazis in their own tongue.

"They also gave invaluable help in the interrogation of prisoners and much useful information was obtained through them."

Col. Laycock said his own unit comprised troops of six nationalities—German, French, Polish, Dutch, Belgian and British—and was the only army unit to fight with the Royal Marines at Walcheren.

Col. Laycock, whose brother, Maj.-Gen. Robert Edward Laycock, succeeded Lord Mountbatten as Chief of Combined Operations, said both he and his brother shared the secret of "Troop X" with Lord Mountbatten, but "few other officers, even of the highest rank, knew of it."

The leader of the German commandos now is a naturalized British living in South Kensington as Edward Langley. He is married to an English woman.

Many Germans under Langley, who was administrative officer of the troop, were refugees. Some had escaped from the Gestapo and others were students from Heidelberg. All shared a hatred of the Nazis.

Red Delegates Quit As China's Assembly Opens

NANKING (AP)—Chiang Kai-shek called the National Assembly into session today as the boycotting Communist delegation, hinting that China's peace hopes were sunk, packed its bags to leave Nanking.

The departing Communist leader, Gen. Chou En-lai, said darkly that the government's "unilateral decision" to go ahead with the Assembly would send civil warfare—flaming in North China—blazing higher than ever.

While the Communists and the Democratic League stuck to a decision not to send delegates, the Generalissimo stood before the Assembly and hailed it as the beginning of constitutional government for China. The day of political tutelage in China, he said, now was over.

Among the listening delegates was Madame Chiang. The Assembly adjourned until Saturday, when the first preparatory session will be held.

It was not immediately clear what the government proposed to do next. The convention, made up mainly of Kuomintang (government) party delegates, is charged with the task of drafting a new constitution.

Wang Ping-nan, Communist spokesman who is No. 2 man of the delegation, warned that if the Assembly met "there will be no more negotiations."

No Conscription For Canada During Peacetime, Ruling

By NORMAN MACLEOD

OTTAWA—The federal cabinet has decided its peacetime policy on military service, it was revealed today. Service will be on a voluntary, not a compulsory basis and is stated to have the full support of the chiefs of the military, air and naval services.

The chiefs are said to have advised the government that Canada's strategic position minimizes the importance of any measure of compulsory peacetime service that might be invoked.

The considerations which make peacetime conscription important to the United Kingdom and to the United States do not apply, they are said to have advised the government.

MASS ATTACKS, TENSIONS—These considerations include the greater degree to which Great Britain and the United States would be natural targets for mass attacks in the event of another world war, and the greater diplomatic tensions in which these governments are engaged. These tensions make the possession of military might, pre-the Bay Street Armories. The inspection originally scheduled for Nov. 2 was postponed. The inspection will be made by W. C. Mainwaring, provincial commissioner, who will also take part, with Hon. E. C. Carson and Mrs. W. C. Woodward in the presentation of prizes and awards during the year by the various teams competing in brigade competitions.

Flier Positive Wreck Identified

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—A Western Airlines pilot reported today he was "positive" he had found the wreckage of one of the company's passenger planes which disappeared early Wednesday with 11 aboard. He said he had sighted the big plane at Lebec, on the Riego route 50 miles north of here.

Three of the passengers were Canadian women, Miss Mary La Branch of Edmonton, Mrs. Bridget W. Knight of Banff, Alta., and Mrs. Florence Henry, a former Winnipeg woman who was en route to her home in Long Beach, Calif.

Miss Mary La Branch of Edmonton, who was a passenger, on the plane, is a sister of Mrs. A. J. Bergeron, 147 Olive Street, Victoria.

Miss La Branch was en route from Edmonton to Los Angeles to spend the Christmas season with her brother, J. La Branch at the time of the disappearance
